PARTY LINES LOST

In War Revenue Fight—Half of Income Will Come From Direct Taxation—McAdoo Plans Meet Objection.

Washington, April 19—With party lines obliterated, the entire membership of the House Ways and Means Committee tomorrow will begin consideration of methods for raising new revenue with which to meet this country's share of the war's expense. The initial problem will be the raising of the $2,000,000,000 to meet half of the estimated cost of the first year of war, for which certificates of indebtedness soon are to be issued.

The committee also probably will lay a ground work for the collection of such other parts of the war cost that Congress may determine is to come from direct taxation. The desire of the administration is that as much of the expense as possible shall come from this source and it is virtually certain that the cost will be about equally divided between taxation and bonds.

Income Tax Opposed

Careful consideration will be given a list of suggested new sources of taxation sent to the committee last Sunday by Secretary McAdoo after conferences with various members of the administration. He suggested the raising of about $1,800,000,000 from various sources, including incomes, excess profits, liquors, amusements, automobile and tobacco taxes. His list will meet with strong objection in many instances, however, and already members are receiving protests against the suggestions, particularly in relation to incomes and excess profits taxes.

Probably the most radical suggestion in the list was that a 40 per cent tax be levied on all incomes over $1,000,000. This is being termed "confession," by persons of large incomes who are opposing it.

Senate and House conferees on the administration $7,000,000,000 war bond bill failed to reach an agreement today and will resume their efforts tomorrow.

All the minor differences in the measure as it passed the two houses were smoothed out today except those on the section relating to the deposit of moneys secured from the bonds. The Senate conferees are insisting on the Senate provision, which they say gave greater discretion to the Secretary of the Treasury in making such deposit.

FOR THE DEFENDANT

In the Mason Circuit Court yesterday the case of Florence Barnett's administrator against Dr. Leslie Brand finally came to a close when the jury returned a verdict for the defendant after being from the court room about 15 minutes. Attorneys Cole and Collins represented the plaintiff and Attorneys Slattery and Cochran for the defense. Each lawyer was allowed to speak for 45 minutes on the case. The jury was composed of the following gentlemen: H. W. Wood, Dale Bryant, John Fitch, Jack Hendrick, Harry Barkley, A. D. Rains, J. P. Marshall, George Atkinson, L. C. Parker, Frank Rice, William McDunnough and George Patillo.

Immediately following, a jury was empaneled to try the case of Waggers vs. Malone, Messrs. Slattery and Rice representing the plaintiff and Mr. J. M. Collins the defendant. The case was not finished yesterday.

ORDERED A GOOD SPANNING

George William Tipton, the ten-year old colored boy, who was seen in the Harrison Grocery on Wednesday night, it is charged for the purpose of stealing, was tried before Juvenile Judge W. H. Rice yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. The boy was frank in all of his answers and said that he had entered the store through a window, where the pane had been broken out. He said that he had not taken anything. Judge Rice ordered his father to take him home and to give him a good spanking and father and son departed for that place, from whence sounds of anguish were soon to arise.

LOCK 'EM UP

Friends and neighbors in the community should remember that there is a statute against chickens trespassing. We hear so much about increasing farming truck and most everybody is trying to raise some garden truck, yet one of the most destructive factors are hens and chickens coming over and scratching up all that has been planted. If you own any such fowl them up or the person upon whose ground they get can kill them.

Mr. W. V. Burdick passed through this city yesterday en route to his home in Fort Thomas, Ky., after a trip to Tatesboro on account of the death of his father, Dr. W. T. Burdick.

LO. THE POOR CORRESPONDENT

We read with very much interest in the Louisville Evening Post a special sent from this city in which is stated that an attempt is being made to blow up the C. & O. depot and that a number of suspicious characters had been chased away from the depot. We feel sorry for the correspondent as he was copying his matter from one of the local spacewriters, who is compelled to get so much copy and as a result rewrites and reshapes and invents stories of all kinds and sizes. Why not blow up a bridge, instead of a poor inoffending depot that will soon be torn down? To blow up the depot would be a useless waster of gunpowder.

TRYED TO OBTAIN MONEY UNDER FALSE PRETENSES

In Police Court yesterday afternoon McChre Gruber, who runs a tailoring shop on Front street was tried for obtaining money under false pretenses. On complaint of a young man whom Gruber had sold a suit, the case was tried. The young man claimed that he had ordered a suit from Gruber and paid him four dollars on it. The suit had not arrived and he sought to recover the money. Gruber admitted getting the money for the suit but claimed that the suit had not arrived yet. Judge Whitaker held the case null yesterday, saying that Gruber must either deliver the suit or refund the money to the young man. Gruber was represented by City Treasurer H. C. Curran.

Mr. Arch Dillon passed through this city yesterday en route to his home in Sardis after a business trip to Cincinnati.

GOING TO WAR WITHOUT EMOTION

"A nation never went less emotionally into war than the United States now enters the greatest war of all times," says the Chicago Tribune. "Our emotions are ragged. They have gone to tatters and our preceptions do not act readily."

"We are impervious to shock, or seem to be for the present. The theatrical elements of war which capture the imagination before the real business of it has begun have exhausted their ability to move Americans."

"We are unable now to behave as the English did when they gathered in Trafalgar square to receive the news that Great Britain had gone in on the side of the French and Russians. We cannot act as the Germans did when they filled Berlin streets with patriotic crowds, or as the French did when they knew that the great dread had become a great reality, or as the Russians did when they realized that the debacle had come out of the shadows and taken tangibility."

"Later there may be a quicker beat to the pulse and a glow in the soul, but the apparent spirit now is one of calculating acceptance of necessity."

"People usually go to war with enthusiasm or in terror. Armies fight battles with deliberation. Americans have more of the soldier's spirit, just now than they have of the popular spirit behind the soldiers."

"The uplift which have come to the national consciousness is missed, but that is unessential if, as we are certain, the determination and resolve exist, however, silently."

"A glow of the national consciousness will not produce an efficient army. Determination and resolve will do so, if there is no exaltation there is a dignified reticence in the present attitude of the United States in entering a great trial for tremendous accomplishment."

"Later, we imagine, martial ardor will find expression, but now the nation feels as if, having been exposed to contagion and having hoped to escape it, the contact had proved too close to permit escape."

"Whatever now comes to the American republic it can only be for the best. It is better that we fight with the allies than that we fight alone. It is better that we solidify than that we dissolve into conflicting partisan elements, fighting against each other rather than for each other."

"It is better that we organize our strength rather than allow it to molder. It is better that we test our courage rather than to doubt its quality."

"Whatever the American republic can do for the cause to which it is now allied, the certainty is that it will do great good for itself. Whatever happens to the men and women of this generation, nothing but benefit can come to the children."

"This generation has been an honorable trustee to the next."

THE BEST METHODS OF FLY PREVENTION

The chief breeding place of flies is in manure. The best single prevention measure is the weekly removal of all manure. Havana, Cuba, where there is a weekly removal of manure, now has no need of fly screens or swatters.

If the weekly removal of nature is not practicable, the second best procedure is to treat the manure.

The United States government recommends borax. Sixty-two hundredths of a pound of borax is used for every ten cubic feet of manure. The day's accumulation should be put into a small pile, treated with borax, sprinkled with water in the proportion of about three gallons to about ten cubic feet, and then thrown into the larger manure bin. Nothing is gained by using a larger proportion of borax.

The University of Wisconsin recommends paris green or a solution of sulphur or iron, two pounds to one gallon of water per horse. Neither of these methods lessen the value of the manure as a fertilizer.

The third best procedure is to screen the manure boxes. Practically this method does not work well, as the general run of stable-men will not keep the screens intact or in position.

Following in importance proper use of manure as a measure for fly prevention, comes cleanliness as a means of depriving flies of food. No other single measure directed against fly food is so important as the care of garbage. The prime need is that garbage be drained. The slops put into one covered vessel and the drained garbage wrapped in paper and put into a second covered vessel.

The garbage cans should be wiped with a mixture of crude oil and kerosene twice a week in very hot weather and once a week in cooler weather. A fly trap can be adjusted to the top of the garbage can.

Proper methods of garbage collection are second in importance to the domestic garbage methods. There should be a daily garbage collection, and the collection should be made by waterproof, cleanable wagons. Havana has a daily garbage collection and a weekly removal of all manure, and in consequence, it is a flyless town.

Owing to the high cost of potatoes the grocers should now insist on gumdrops as a substitute for capping the family oil can.—Ogden (Utah) Examiner.

Now that the Russians have started a republic they'll find it a whole lot harder to retain liberty than they did to get it.—Boston Transcript.

Happiness and misfortune stand in a continual balance. Every misfortune is, as it were, the obstruction of a stream, which, after overcoming this obstacle, bursts through with greater force.

NERVOUSNESS AND BLUES

Symptoms of More Serious Sickness.

Washington Park, Ill.—"I am the mother of four children and have suffered with female trouble, backache, nervous spells and the blues. My children's loud talking and romping would make me so nervous I could just tear everything to pieces and I would ache all over and feel so sick that I would not want anyone to talk to me at times. Lydia E. Plinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pill restored me to health and I want to thank you for the good they have done me. I have had quite a bit of trouble and worry but it does not affect my youthful looks. My friends say 'Why do you look so young and well?' I owe it all to the Lydia E. MODERN PAUL REVERE AROUSES BROADWAY

New York, April 18.—The Minutemen of 1917 were called to arms by the clanging of church bells and the ride of a modern Paul Revere through the streets of Manhattan at midnight as the 142nd anniversary of the battle of Lexington began.

NAVAL ENGAGEMENT REPORTS ARE DENIED

Boston, April 18—It was officially announced at the navy yard late today that no evidence was placed in reports from three coast guard stations on Cape Cod that heavy gunfire had been heard off the coast. The positive statement was made that there had been no naval engagement and that warships had not exchanged salutes with foreign vessels.

The previous announcement that heavy gunfire had been heard during the morning was also issued officially at the navy yard. It was based on reports from Cape Cod received by Lieutenant E. G. Blakeslee, in charge of the naval radio district.

Newspaper correspondents at points on the cape reported that they had not heard any gunfire, and that they knew nothing of it except from the bulletins issued by the naval authorities.

The statement discrediting the first official announcement was issued after the navy yard radio station had been in communication with the patrol fleet off the coast. No information of any firing was obtained from ships at sea, the authorities said, adding that coast guard stations had sent in no additional reports. Naval officers who were asked to explain the probable origin of the morning reports, which, according to the official announcement, came independently from three coast guard stations, said they were unable to offer any suggestion as to what might have been heard at those stations.

Tonight there were reports current on the tip of Cape Cod of further firing. The sounds were heard between 10 and 10:30 o'clock and apparently came from the northwest, the story said, but none of the rumors could be pinned down to an official course. Coast guards stationed in the vicinity of Provincetown reported that they had heard nothing.

I read so much about Vinol I decided to try it and I must say it helped me in every way. It built me up so I felt like a new woman, and my friends said they could see a great change in me." ROOSEVELT MAY ABANDON PLAN

Oyster Bay, N. Y., April 18—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, in a statement tonight declared that in furtherance of his plan to lead an army division to France, "it may be that conditions will become such as to make it wise" for him to accept a commission as major general of the National Guard of New York, offered by Governor Whitman. His preference, however, he said, would be to raise a division of the United States volunteers similar to the troop he commanded in Cuba during the Spanish-American war.
